ROLES, DUTIES, RESPONSIBILITIES AND AUTHORITY OF THE NON-COMMISSIONED OFFICER

Source of Army Standards

Duties, Responsibilities, and Authority of the NCO

(Assuming a Leadership Position)

- is one of the most important leadership situations that may face by an NCO.

Things to think about and learn as you establish your goals in the organization in Assuming a leadership position.

1. Determine what your organization expects of you.

2. Determine who your immediate leader is and what they expect of you.

3. Determine the level of competence and the strengths and weaknesses of your soldiers.

Source of Army Standards

(Assuming a Leadership Position)

4. Identify the key points outside of your organization whose willing support you need to accomplish the mission

5. What is the organization's mission?

6. How does this mission fit in with the mission of the next higher organization?

7. What are the standards the organization must meet?

8. What resources are available to help the organization accomplish the mission?

9. What is the current state of morale?

Source of Army Standards

(Assuming a Leadership Position)

10. Who reports directly to you? soldiers about?

11. What are the strengths and weaknesses of your key subordinates and the unit?

12. Who are the key people outside the organization who support mission accomplishment? (What are their strengths and weaknesses?)

13. When and what do you talk to your soldiers about?

Duties, Responsibilities and Authority

- Duties refer to the specific tasks or assignments that individuals within the Philippine Army.
- Numerous and must be taken seriously it includes taking care of soldiers.
- Corporals and sergeants do this by developing a genuine concern for soldiers' well-being.

Source of Army Standards

Three (3) types of Duties of Non-Commissioned Officers:

a. Specified Duties are those related to jobs and positions.

b. Directed Duties are not specified as part of a job position or MOS or other-directed.

c. Implied Duties often support specified duties, but in some cases, they may not be related to the MOS job position.

Duties, Responsibilities and Authority

- Go beyond mere tasks and encompass a broader sense of obligation or accountability.
- Ensuring the welfare and safety of subordinates, upholding the values and standards of the military, adhering to regulations and protocols, and achieving mission objectives.
- Is the legally established and moral obligation a soldier assumes for his own actions, accomplishments and failure.

Source of Army Standards

Responsibilities fall into two (2) categories:

- Command Responsibility - refers to collective or organizational accountability and includes how well the unit performs its missions.

- Individual Responsibility - every soldier is responsible for performing his duty to the very best of his ability and for trying to improve his performance.

General Roles and Responsibilities of NCO to perform:

- Trains soldiers and conducts the daily business of the Philippine Army within established policy.
- Focuses on individual soldier and small unit training.
- Deals primarily with individual soldier training and team building.
- Ensures that subordinate teams, NCOs, and soldiers are prepared to function as effective units and team members.

Source of Army Standards

Twelve (12) broad categories are considered the "Bible" of the NCO Corps.

1. Individual training of soldiers in MOS and in basic soldiering skills.
2. Personal and professional development of soldiers.
3. Accountability for the squad, section, or team.
4. Military appearance, physical conditioning, and training of soldiers.
5. Physical and mental well-being of the soldier and his or her family.
6. Supervision, control, motivation, and discipline of subordinates.

Source of Army Standards

7. Communication between the individual soldier and the organization

8. Plan and conduct day-to-day unit operations within prescribed policies

9. Maintain established standards of performance for soldiers and Non-Commissioned Officers.

10. Maintenance, serviceability, accountability, and readiness of arms, clothing, vehicles, and equipment

11. Appearance and condition of unit billets, facilities, and work areas.

12. Advise on support, and implement policy established by the chain of command

Duties Responsibilities and Authority

- the legitimate power or right to command, make decisions, and enforce obedience within the military hierarchy.
- is typically delegated based on rank and position.
- Officers have authority over enlisted personnel, and higher-ranking officers have authority over lower-ranking ones.

Source of Army Standards

Two (2) basic types of authority in the Philippine Army

- Command Authority - It is the authority leaders have over soldiers by virtue of rank or assignment. Command authority originates with the President and may be supplemented by law or regulation.

- General Military Authority - It is authority extended to all soldiers to take action and act in the absence of a unit leader or other designated authority.

Inspections and Corrections

- systematic evaluations conducted to ensure that military units, personnel, equipment, and facilities adhere to standards and regulations.

- may be conducted for various purposes, including readiness assessments, maintenance checks, training evaluations, and adherence to administrative policies.

Source of Army Standards

Inspections and Corrections

- Refer to the actions taken to address deficiencies, errors, or violations identified during inspections or through other means.
- Involve disciplinary measures, training interventions, equipment maintenance or repair, procedural adjustments, or administrative actions to rectify shortcomings and ensure compliance.
- Aimed at maintaining standards, enhancing performance, and fostering accountability among personnel.

Source of Army Standards

Two (2) categories of inspections for determining the status of individual soldiers and their equipment:

1. In-ranks inspection is of personnel and equipment in a unit formation.

2. In-quarters (barracks) inspection to include personal appearance, individual weapons, field equipment, displays, maintenance and sanitary conditions.

Source of Army Standards

Three basic types of inspection in the Philippine Army

1.) On-the-Spot Correction. One of the most effective administrative corrective measures is on-the-spot correction.

On-the-spot correction steps

- ✓Correct the soldier
- ✓Attack the performance, never the person
- ✓Give one correction at a time. Do not dump
- ✓Don’t keep bringing it up. When the correction is over, it is over.

Source of Army Standards

Corrective training guidelines

- ✓ The training, instruction, or correction given to a soldier to correct deficiencies must be directly related to the deficiency.
- ✓ Orient the corrective action to improve the soldier's performance in their problem area.
- ✓ You may take corrective measures after normal duty hours. Such measures assume the nature of the training or instruction, not punishment.
- ✓ Corrective training should continue only until the training deficiency is overcome.
- ✓ All levels of command should take care to ensure that training and instruction are not used oppressively to evade the procedural safeguards in imposing non-judicial punishment.

Source of Army Standards

2. On-the-Spot Inspections. Making an informal, unscheduled check of equipment, soldiers, or quarters is called an on-the-spot inspection.

3. PCC/PCI. Pre-combat checks (PCCs) / Pre-Combat Inspections (PCIs) and Pre-execution checks are key to ensuring leaders, trainers, and soldiers are adequately prepared to execute operations and training to Philippine Army standards.

Source of Army Standards

Corrections

- are essential for maintaining discipline, morale, and effectiveness within the ranks.
- uphold military standards, foster accountability, and ensure the trust and confidence of the public in the armed forces

On-the-spot correction steps

✓ Correct the soldier

✓ Attack the performance, never the person

✓ Give one correction at a time. Do not dump

✓ Don’t keep bringing it up. When the correction is over, it is over.
